PROCLAMATIONS.

"LAND ACT."

Regulations regarding Permanent Survey Monuments under Section 7 of the "Land Act," as re-enacted by Chapter 49, B.C. Statutes, 1947.

THE regulations herein contained for the marking with a permanent monument of every corner or angle of a section, quarter-section, lot, or quarter-lot in the survey of Crown lands are issued under authority of clause (c) of section 7 of chapter 144, as that section was re-enacted by section 3 of chapter 49 of the Statutes of 1947.

These regulations shall come into effect three months after the first publication in The British Columbia Gazette, and shall apply to all surveys not completed before that date.

1. A permanent monument consists of one of three types of posts, as follows: (a) The standard pipe post, (b) the standard rock post, and (c) the standard concrete post, together with mounds, pits, trenches, and bearing trees as hereinafter described.

2. The standard pipe post consists of a piece of 1-inch pipe, 30 inches in length, filled with concrete. A malleable brass or bronze foot plate $3\frac{1}{2}$ inches in diameter and a bronze or brass cap 3 inches in diameter are welded to the bottom and top respectively of the pipe. It weighs approximately $7\frac{1}{2}$ lb. and is packed in wooden crates, ten posts in each, weighing about 85 lb.

The standard pipe post shall be used in all ground except where bed-rock, or a large boulder too large to be moved with the tools of a survey party, is encountered above ground, or less than 18 inches below the natural surface of the ground, or where a standard concrete post, as hereinafter described, can be planted.

The post is planted with the top of the cap flush with the surface of the ground. When bed-rock, or a boulder too large to be removed with the tools of a survey party, prevents sinking the post to the full depth of 30 inches, the foot plate is placed upon the rock, and earth and stones accumulated around the post so as to raise the surface of the ground flush with the top of the bronze cap.

3. A hole 30 inches deep has to be made for receiving the standard pipe post. After inserting the post, with the crown towards the north, the hole is filled with earth, which is tamped firmly around it. In tamping the earth, care must be taken not to strike the bronze cap. When bed-rock, or a boulder too large to be moved, is encountered more than 18 inches below the natural surface of the ground, thus preventing the digging to the full depth of 30 inches, the surface is raised, as previously explained, by gathering earth or stones around the post.

Under no circumstances is any force to be used on these posts in planting them.

4. The standard rock post is a bronze casting 3 inches in diameter, with a shank $\frac{7}{8}$ inch in diameter projecting for 3 inches from its under-side, the weight being less than 1 lb.

The standard rock post is used wherever bed-rock, or a large boulder too large to be moved with the tools of a survey party, is encountered above ground or less than 18 inches below the natural surface of the ground.

The surface of the rock is laid bare within a radius of at least 1 yard by removing and widely scattering the covering earth, so that it may not be covered again by the action of water or any other agency.

5. A hole 3 inches deep and $\frac{7}{8}$ inch in diameter has to be drilled for receiving the standard rock post. When the necessary hole has been drilled, all dirt and foreign matter is carefully removed and the hole filled with a paste made of Portland cement and water. As too much water weakens the fastening, care must be taken to make the paste just moist enough so that it will cohere if rolled into a ball by hand. The post is then inserted, with the crown towards the north, and pressed down until the cap rests upon the rock surface. Care should be taken to keep the cement moist until it sets, which is best done by putting a piece of paper over the post and then covering the paper with a large wet sod, or two or three shovelfuls of wet earth. (The quantity of cement required is small; it must be of best quality. The supply has to be protected against moisture and is best kept in a water-tight tin.)

6. The standard concrete post consists of a standard pipe post cemented into a concrete monolith 10 inches square on top, 30 inches in depth, and 18 inches square at the bottom.

The concrete monolith is cast at the site of the corner or angle by excavating to the proper size and depth, and setting the form so that the centre of the cap will be at the true position and level with the natural surface of the ground.

The forms for the concrete monoliths are to be of the dimensions and the arrangement of parts as shown.

Where suitable transportation is not available for carrying these forms, an alternative design for the concrete monolith is shown. A hole 18 inches square and 30 inches deep is dug at the site of the monument. After the standard pipe post is placed in position, the bottom 21 inches are filled with concrete. A 9-inch form is then put in place and filled with concrete, thus completing the top of the monolith in a workmanlike manner.

It is obvious that this design cannot be used in sandy or moist soils that cave in as the hole is being dug.

The concrete shall consist of a mixture of one volume of Portland cement to one and one-half volumes of sand to three volumes of $\frac{1}{4}$ -inch gravel or crushed stone, or, if sand and gravel are run-of-pit, the concrete shall consist of one volume of Portland cement to three volumes of run-of-pit mixture of sand and $\frac{1}{4}$ -inch gravel.

The Portland cement shall be the best quality and of recent manufacture. On no account shall old Portland cement or Portland cement containing lumps be used.

The sand shall be clean, sharp river-sand, free from loam and other impurities.

The gravel or crushed stone shall be clean and free from impurities.

The water shall be clean, fresh water, free from oily, acid, alkaline, organic, or saline matter.

The forms shall be well made and tight fitting, so that the water may not run out.

The Portland cement, sand, and gravel shall be thoroughly mixed and incorporated by being turned over dry several times on a clean platform and the water then added.

The concrete shall be well rammed into the forms, so that the concrete monument shall have clean, complete, sharp edges and top, and with no voids.

The form shall remain on the concrete monument for at least forty-eight hours after pouring.

After the forms are removed, the position of the centre of the cap shall be checked, then earth or stones shall be well tamped around the monolith.

Care should be taken to keep the cement damp until it sets by covering the top with a piece of paper and then covering the paper with a large wet sod, or two or three shovelfuls of wet earth.

The face of the cap of the post is to be cleaned and left free of cement.

7. The standard concrete post shall be used at all corners or angles which are accessible either by truck along highways or roads or by motor-boat along waterways. The standard concrete post is not to be used where a standard rock post can be used.

8. All mounds, pits, and trenches are of the same dimension, whether they indicate section, quarter-section, lot, or quarter-lot corners.

Whether a mound is or is not built, the centre of each of the four pits is 7 feet from the post, which is in the centre of the square formed by the four pits.

9. A corner mound is 5 feet square at the base and 30 inches high. Pits are 3 feet square and 18 inches deep.

10. At section or quarter-section corners the centre of the mound is 10 feet due south from the post.

11. At the corner of a single lot the pits are placed square to the western or the eastern boundary of the lot, as the case may be.

12. The pits on the boundary-line between two lots only, or at a corner common to two lots only, are placed square to the line.

13. At a corner common to three or more lots the pits are placed diagonally to the line running most nearly towards the north.

14. If a corner falls in water, in the bed of a stream, on an inaccessible mountain, or in any other locality unfavourable to the erection of a monument, the surveyor perpetuates such corner by a witness-monument on the surveyed line at the nearest suitable point. The distance and direction of the true corner from such witness-monument are stamped on the post. Care must be taken to indicate the bearing from the witness-post to the true corner; thus a witness-post south of the true corner is marked with the letter "N" for north.

A witness-monument must not be placed on a road allowance, public highway, or travelled road.

A witness-monument must not be erected when it is possible to make a permanent monument at the true corner.

15. The position of a monument may also be witnessed by ascertaining the bearing and distance therefrom of one or more adjacent trees where the nature of the woods is such that the trees will be permanent marks. A blaze is cut on the side of the tree facing the post, and the letters "B.T." and the distance from the post to the tree are marked on the blaze with a knife or scribing-iron. The bearing and distance from the corner to the tree are recorded in the field-notes. The size and description of the tree are also recorded.

16. A witness-trench is circular, of 6 feet inside diameter. The trench is 24 inches wide and 12 inches deep. A witness-mound is conical, 6 feet in diameter and 30 inches high.

17. A witness-post stands in the centre of the circle formed by the trench. The centre of the mound is on the line surveyed and at a distance of 10 feet from the post in the direction opposite to the corner witnessed.

18. Whether at a corner or witness monument, a stone mound is built in preference to an earth mound, when stones are available, but, except with the standard rock post, pits must be dug, also the relative positions of the post, mound, and pits being as already described.

19. Where the standard rock post is used, the pits are omitted and a stone mound is built at the place which it would occupy if the pits were built.

20. In the formation of mounds, the earth is taken from the pits or trench. They are formed of solid earth, roots and all foreign substances being excluded, and the earth well pressed down with the spade during the process.

21. When large trees or other obstacles interfere, the position of the pits relative to the direction of the lines may, when necessary, be rotated to suit circumstances, providing the line joining the centres of opposite pits shall always pass through the post, but one of the pits may be omitted when it is found impracticable to dig the four pits.

22. No monuments are to be erected in positions where they are liable to destruction; they must be placed far enough from rivers to be safe from obliteration by floods. When the site of a corner falls in an exposed position, a witness-monument must be erected.

23. Mounds or pits must not be made on a travelled road. A corner falling in such a place is indicated by a witness-monument.

24. On all surveys of Crown lands, monuments are to be built as the survey progresses and not left to be built at some future time. Every monument, after it has been erected, must be inspected by the surveyor or one of his assistants.

25. These regulations grant a practising British Columbia Land Surveyor the right to replace with a permanent monument, as herein described, any monument that requires renewing.

26. The inscription on the caps of the posts is made with steel dies. The set of seventeen dies consists of a $\frac{5}{16}$ -inch straight-line die and $\frac{3}{16}$ -inch letters "N," "S," "E," "W," "T," "R," a period, and of the figures 0 to 8, inclusive, 9 being made by turning the 6 upside down.

27. The general rule for marking a post is to stamp, in the centre, lines representing the boundary-lines passing through or ending at the post, and to mark the designation of the adjoining parcels of land in the corresponding angles.

28. If the post marks the position of a section or quarter-section, then the number of the township and range shall also be marked.

29. The surveyor shall also mark upon the cap of the post the year in which the survey was made, the number for that year which he has designated for the post as shown in the field-notes, and also at the bottom of the cap the registry number of his commission as a British Columbia Land Surveyor.

30. A supply of standard posts will be kept at the following land recording districts offices: Atlin, Kamloops, Nelson, New Westminster, Pouce Coupe, Prince George, Prince Rupert, Revelstoke, Vancouver, and Victoria.
